It seems unlikely that one would head to New York to start a career in tough show business at the ripe old age of 36, but that is exactly what BILL COBBS did. Several appearances at the famous Karamu House Theater in Cleveland, Ohio (where he was born and raised) whetted his appetite for the stage. Since that time, BILL COBBS has never looked back, gracing the stage, the screen and capturing large television audiences. He is among the industry's most sought after actors, having appeared in over 200 films and television shows. Just a few of his credits include

Oz the Great and Powerful (2013)

Go On (TV 2012-13)

The Muppets (2011)

Night at the Museum (2006)

Star Trek: Enterprise (TV 2005)
